The Harvest Supper held in the Raymond United Church on Friday was decidedly a great financial success. Hot meals were served at noon to approximately 120 patrons and to a much larger number in the evening. The Building Committee, sponsors of this project to raise much needed funds is grateful for the generous support received from the public and also to the many friends and members for donations of food, cash, work and cooperation.

Aren't we having lovely fall weather? Of course some don't enjoy the gale-like winds, but it has been beautiful and dry, giving the farmers the wonderful opportunity of harvesting their grain crops and getting their beets up and doing numerous things in preparation for the cold weather.

Just this week we were talking to Mrs. Reg. Cooper who said she had picked some beautiful red strawberries from her garden. Can you beat that for the last week in October? We have a marvelous country and it is a fine place to live in.

One of Raymond's most gracious ladies, Mrs. L. D. King, celebrated her birthday on October 23rd.

Bill and Melba Mehew had "Lizzie" as she is known to many, and her good husband L. D. for the birthday dinner. Shirley and Dora King did the honors for their mother Sunday evening. They enjoyed a family program with the grand-children taking part. Later L. D. showed pictures of their trip to Mesa, Arizona and also pictures of the family which he had taken. The lunch served by Dora was delicious. We too wish to add our best wishes for Mrs. King. May she long enjoy all the good things of life she so richly deserves.

Virginia City Players Here Friday, Nov. 4

HAROLD SMITH

MARY CROWDER

A large audience is expected at The Opera House on Friday, Nov. 4th, when the renowned Virginia City Players will present Lillian Mortimer's immortal gaslight melodrama, No Mother To Guide Her.

The Players, now on their fifth winter tour of the Northwest, have won nation-wide acclaim for their superb presentations of authentic 19th century American melodrama. Under the direction of Larry Barsness, the troupe recaptures that magic era when kerosene lamps were the footlights and admission was paid in gold dust.

Action-packed "No Mother To Guide Her" proved to be the hit of the summer season at the Players' own theatre, the old Stone Barn Playhouse, in historic Virginia City, Montana. Brought back again this year by popular demand, the fast-moving play had originally been scheduled by Mr. Barsness for a two week run, but instead it ran for over six weeks, breaking all box-office records. While not the easiest play to stage and produce — an enormous amount of costumes, stage settings and special lights are required — Mr. Barsness is following the inflexible rule of 19th century touring companies; "Hit the road with the best play you have". That "No Mother To Guide Her" is one of the most popular melodramas in the Players' repertoire has been proven by its steady success year after year.

The play certainly has action enough. Its three acts abound in fist-fights, stabbings, shootings, drug-gings, kidnappings, and a false marriage. Harold Smith is cast as the dyed-in-the-wool villain, the dastardly John Livingstone — complete with silky moustache, cutaway coat and top hat. Opposite him is Edwin Barron, as the handsome, brawny hero, Ralph Carlton. Mary Crowder plays the blonde heroine, Rose Day, who, though she loves the hero, falls under the influence of the evil Livingstone, an old-time gay-90's vaudeville show.

Also featured, following the play, is Variety acts, the hilarious Fireman's Quartet, skits, and song-and-dance routines, all featuring members of the cast, will top the evening's performance.

The show is being sponsored by the Rotary Club. Curtain is at 8 p. m.

RCAF Mascot Wants to Keep "His Feet on Ground"

Meet MacDonald Duck, the Reluctant Mallard. He is the mascot of the RCAF station at Macdonald, Man., and he has posed a problem to F/O Tom Winslow, who has undertaken to teach MacDonald to fly. The duck fell into the station's hangar last fall, wounded and with ice on his wings. The airmen adopted him, fed him all winter and fully expected he would take to the air come spring. But not MacDonald, who probably knows a good life when he finds it. He just won't bother flying, and Winslow, who teaches fledgling pilots to manoeuvre in the stratosphere, is trying his best to apply some of his teaching technique to his backward pupil.

If this is inconvenient rinse the mouth with water. Eating an apple will also remove those small particles from between teeth.

PLYMOUTH REVEALS NEW FULLY-AUTOMATIC PUSH-BUTTON DRIVE

Automatic drive models of the 1956 Plymouth will be equipped with "Push-Button Powerflite" - the first completely automatic gear selection operated by push-buttons on the dash. Mounted within finger-tip reach of the driver, the push-button selectors respond to a lighter pressure than the average car radio.

The Plymouth line of automobiles for 1956 is characterized by the new Forward Look design, accentuated by upswept rear fenders. New V-8 and 6-cylinder engines have increased torque and horsepower. Plymouth is also introducing an entirely new model—the Belvedere 4-door hardtop—and a complete line of Suburban models.

The new cars are being introduced to the public throughout Canada. John C. McGuire, a Director of Chrysler Corporation of Canada, Limited and General Sales Manager of the Chrysler - Plymouth - Fargo Division, announced.

Two brand-new engines on the 1956 Plymouth cars have been designed with greatly increased torque. The new "Hy-Fire" V-8 engine has a larger bore and greater displacement, resulting in improved performance and horsepower rating. The Hy-Fire engine is also available with a Power Pak (with Powerflite Transmission) which includes a 4-barrel carburetor for lightning performance.

The "PowerFlow" six-cylinder engine has a compression ratio of 7.0 to 1 (7.5 to 1 with Powerflite).

A completely new 12-volt electrical system is one of the outstanding engineering achievements of the 1956 Forward Look Plymouth automobiles. As the 12-volt battery has an unusually large reserve capacity, the system not only produces a hotter spark for improved engine performance, but has ample power available for quick starts even on the coldest days. The 12-volt waterproof electrical system is equipped with a new type generator designed to charge the heavy-duty battery even at low speeds. This means there is seldom any "discharge" on the battery, so it is kept at peak operating efficiency.

Low-beam headlights are among the new safety features on the new Plymouth. When tilted downward, or dimmed, the new low-beam headlights throw a long, low beam 80 feet farther than conventional headlights now in use. They have also been designed to eliminate the beams of light which cause "glare" for the approaching driver. The new design gives the driver more usable light, and creates safer nighttime driving conditions.

It is the new Push-Button control that makes Plymouth Powerflite models completely automatic. Four push buttons, located at the left of the instrument panel, can be reached without moving the arm forward. In this position, they are completely out of the reach of children and there are no protrusions to catch the sleeves.

The push-buttons, which respond to a pressure of three pounds, as compared to about five pounds for most radio buttons, are marked N for Neutral, D for Drive, R for Reverse, and L for Low. To aid the driver during the hours of darkness, all buttons which are not in use are lit, so that the driver may easily select another button. The buttons are clear with white letters, with the exception of R for Reverse, which has a red letter.

An additional safety feature is found in a hydraulic interlock which prevents the driver from inadvertently selecting "Reverse" when the car is moving forward faster than 10 m.p.h. With this device, it becomes impossible to suddenly throw the car into reverse at these speeds.

From a styling standpoint, the 1956 Plymouth advances the famous Forward Look design, from the new grille treatment in front to the High-Sweep rear fenders. On V-8 models, the front grille has a gold "V" on the mesh grille, and the newly-designed hood ornament has a striking forward thrust. The word Plymouth appears across the hood in block letters and parking lights built in the grille design give a feeling of unity to the front.

Leading off the new line of Flight-styled Plymouth models for 1956 is the Plymouth Belvedere four-door hardtop shown here. Available with and Reverse-are located to the left of the steering column and can be operated at the touch of a finger. A choice of two engines is offered—a six selector button-Drive, Low, Neutral and a V-8.

Such babies are usually from five-and-a-half to six pounds in weight and require very special care at birth in order to save their lives. The best way of preventing premature birth is to ensure that the expectant mother has adequate prenatal care, either by her own doctor or the prenatal clinic, so that her health may be checked frequently and proper diet and exercise prescribed.

Push-Button Control

From the picture shown here readers will understand why North Star Oil Limited experienced a little difficulty in keeping two of its top secrets under wraps pending the opening of its $12,000,000 refinery at St. Boniface on October 25th. Giant catalyst crackers and oil converters, some of which appear in the background of the picture, form a natural part of any new refinery but they are just bound to attract attention when they rise to the sky in startling hues of red, yellow and blue instead of the traditional aluminum. Another innovation which has caught the eye is the specially constructed control building with its plate-glass front through which motorists can see the push-button precision with which the operations of the great refinery are controlled. A special driveway has been constructed off the main highway for the benefit of those whose desire to secure a close-up view.

Supper Patterns

by Consumer Section
Marketing Service
Canada Department of Agriculture

Three meals a day—1095 meals a year, 365 of which are supper or lunch if dinner happens to be served in the evening. That is a staggering number of suppers but they need not be a problem if a little time and care are taken in planning them, say the home economics of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture.

Everyone will agree that no matter what is being made—a dress, a book-case or a meal it is much easier to do a good job when there is a pattern to follow. The Consumer Section certainly feels this way about supper planning and this pattern of theirs is sure to be helpful in the home where the perennial question is "What will we have for supper?"

First of all, there should be a main dish containing some protein food such as eggs, cheese, meat, fish, dried beans or peas. Then, to serve with the main dish, a vegetable is desired. It might be cooked by itself or included in the main dish or better still, served raw in a salad or as part of a relish tray. Bread and butter appear in the supper pattern, too, and for a change muffins or biscuits might be served instead of bread. The dessert can be something simple such as applesauce, baked apple, milk pudding or fruit jelly. Cake or cookies may be served too but are not considered a necessity. And to drink, milk or cocoa are ideal especially if some members of the family have not had their quota of milk for the day.

In most homes about the same food is served each morning for breakfast, and dinner is usually a rather standard meal of meat and potatoes with suitable accompaniments. But about the only standardized feature as far as supper goes, is that it generally consists of a main course and dessert. This can really be an advantage because it gives plenty of scope for using the imagination in planning suppers.

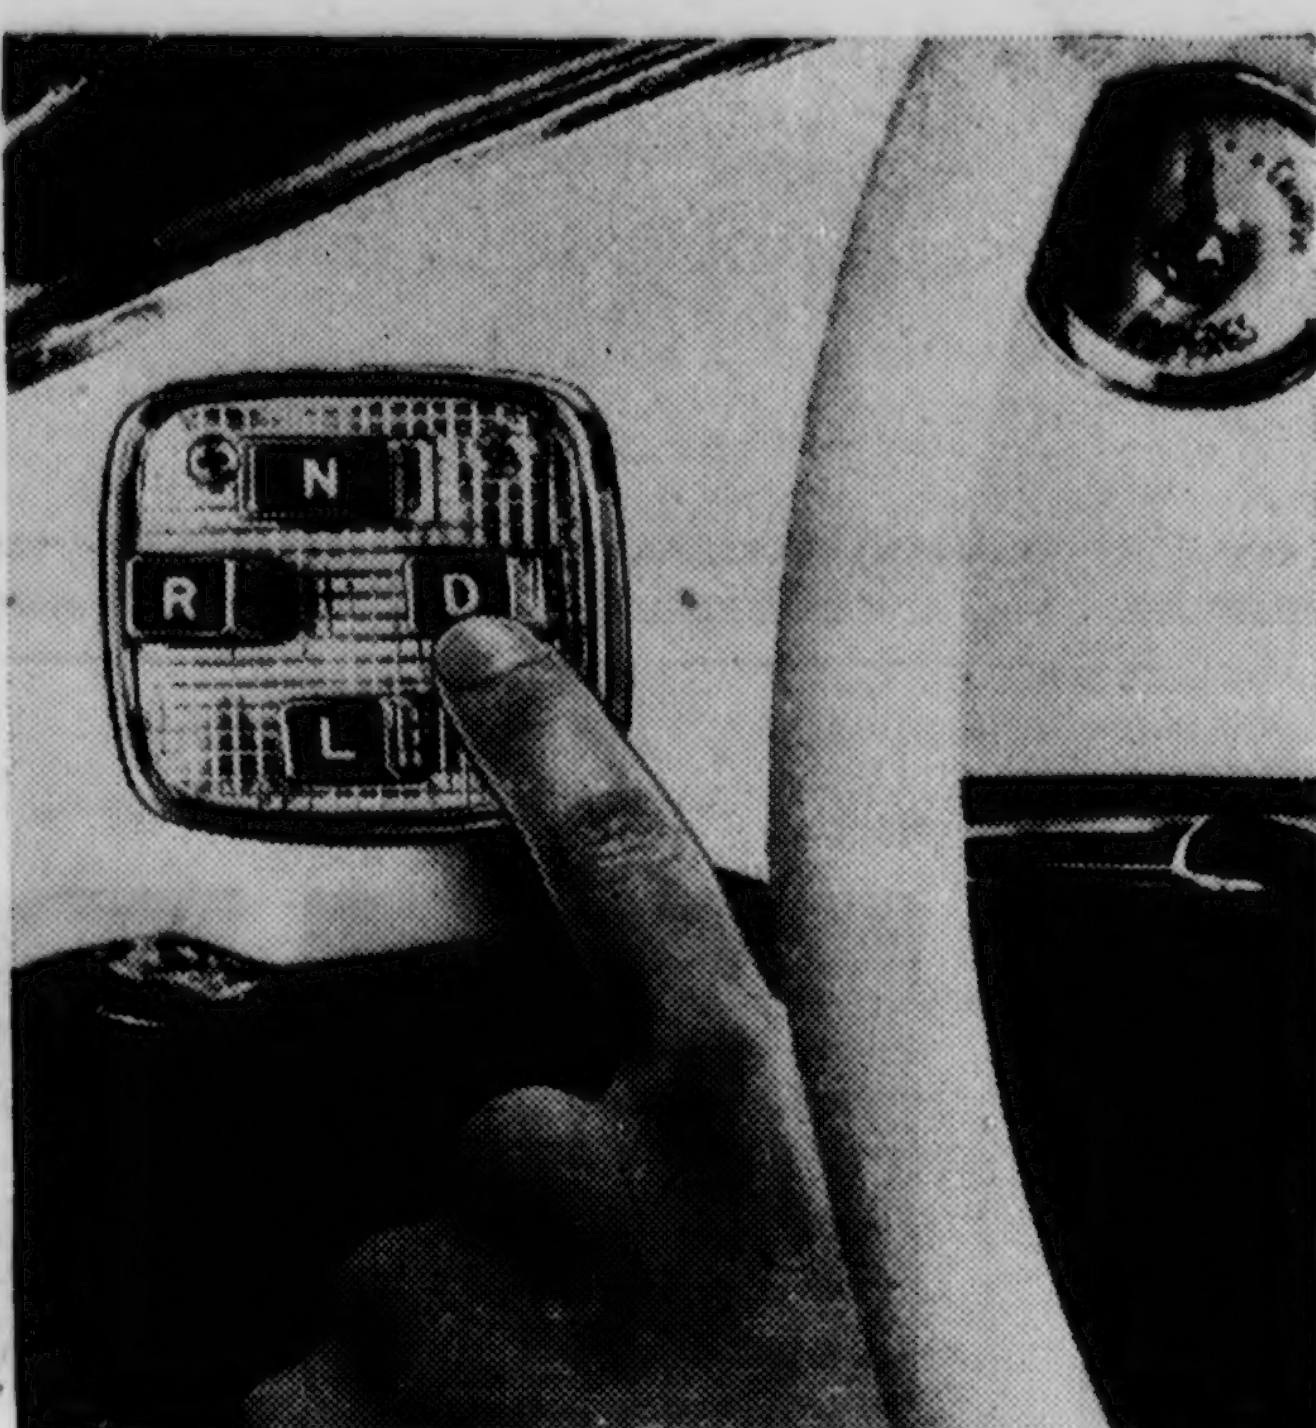

One way variety can be brought into supper meals is to set aside a night each week, say Thursday, for a supper of new dishes. A good cookbook or two will be especially helpful for inspiration and many practical suggestions and recipes are given in the newspapers and magazines as well as over the radio and on television. A file can be started and the recipes which have been tried and were liked by the family can be placed in a special section headed "Family Favourites".

Another plan which helps vary supper meals is to select ten or more of the family's favourite supper dishes which are all different and then use these one after another. For example, they might be baked sausages with scalloped potatoes, creamed ham and peas on toast, a hearty meat and vegetable soup, or a cream of potatoe and onion soup, a hot meat or cheese sandwich which might be grilled, baked, broiled or served with sauce or gravy, hot dogs or hamburgers, an omelette or souffle served with a salad, a baked casserole dish such as macaroni and cheese or diced ham and potato, golden pancakes or waffles served with bacon or sausages and last but not least stuffed baked potatoes.

- STUFFED BAKED POTATOES
- 6 medium baked potatoes
 - 1/2 cup grated Canadian Cheddar cheese
 - 1/2 cup chopped or minced cooked ham
 - 1/2 cup chopped mushrooms, cooked
 - 2 tablespoons finely chopped onions
 - 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
 - 1 egg, slightly beaten
 - 1-1 1/2 teaspoons salt
 - 1/4 teaspoon mayonnaise
 - 1 tablespoon meat sauce (optional)

Cut a slice from top of potatoes and remove potato leaving shell intact. Mash potatoes, add cheese, ham, mushrooms, onion, parsley, egg, salt, pepper, mayonnaise and meat sauce and combine thoroughly. Fill potato shells with potato mixture, top with grated cheese or buttered crumbs and bake in a moderately hot oven, 375° F., until brown, about 15 minutes. Yield: Six servings.

Here's what the push-button control unit for PowerFlite automatic transmission looks like. The panel houses buttons for neutral, low, reverse and drive. A touch of a finger is all it takes to go from neutral to any driving range to another. Cars can be 'rocked' out of mud, snow, or sand by alternately pressing the reverse and low buttons. Two safety features are built into the push-button mechanism. One prevents starting the car in any gear except neutral. The other prevents the transmission from being shifted accidentally into reverse at speeds over 10 miles per hour.

Greater driving care than ever before will be needed this Fall now that the children are back at school, says Carol Lane, noted travel authority and women's travel director of Shell Oil Company of Canada.

With an enrollment of over 2,500, 000 children going to Elementary and Secondary Schools in Canada, a great many of them will be riding bicycles to and from school.

These children will be sharing the road with nearly four million motor vehicles.

"It is shocking to realize," says Miss Lane, "that the biggest single killer of children in the country is motor vehicle accidents." With more children going back to school this year than ever before, and more bicycles and cars on the road, the greater safety precautions must be taken while driving. This is especially true in School zones, near play grounds and in residential areas.

Bicycle riders are supposed to observe the same rules as those that prevail for motorists. 'But,' says M. Lane "remember that children are children. It is up to the adult driver to assume the responsibility. Regard every child on a bicycle as a danger signal to slow down, drive with even more care."

Parents must do their part, too, by teaching children the elements of safe bicycle riding, and making sure that the bicycles are kept in perfect condition.

Good things, they say, come in small packages. So remember—outsize portions discourage pint-size appetites. Small servings and spare spoonfuls are more likely to make baby want more.

The two-horned white rhinoceros is second to the elephant as the world's largest land animal.

NORTH STAR'S NEW $12,000,000 REFINERY

REFLECTS CONFIDENCE OF CANADIAN SHAREHOLDERS IN THE FUTURE OF THEIR GREAT NATION

Today with pardonable pride this Canadian-owned company takes its rightful place in the forefront of those whose vision and enterprise are contributing so much to the economy of Canada and the welfare of its people.

Pride of size — with ample room for expansion.

Pride in the 12,000 barrels per day capacity, near which the plant commences production.

Pride as a medium for ever-increasing employment, direct and indirect, throughout the west.

and above all — through the amazing catalytic cracking unit which makes possible the production of high Octane gasoline and other up-to-the-minute equipment which have combined to make this Canada's most modern refinery — pride in the skill, the ability and the determination of the Company's personnel to produce the best gasolines ever made available to the drivers of cars, trucks, and tractors in western Canada.

a bonus in Octane! ... A BONUS IN POWER!

The date for the Union's big membership drive, F.U.A. Jubilee Day, has been set for Wednesday, November 16. Following this announcement the Union anticipates that the final plans for the one day membership drive will be put into effect by all District Directors and their Boards, who this year are in charge of district organization and appointment of local personnel to carry out the membership drive in all unorganized districts.

It is urgent that all locals of the Union be prepared to carry out their responsibilities in the one day drive, if we are to maintain a united farm front and to achieve the Union's objective which is "Parity for Agriculture".

Upswept rear fenders rise to form a turret-type taillight, stop light and directional signal assembly designed for maximum safety in operation. The swept-back wrap-around windshield has been retained for maximum visibility.

Interiors of the new cars feature Plymouth's famous colour harmony. Interior colours are planned to match exactly or to complement exterior finishes. Fabrics in a rich metallic-thread weave give the interior of Belvedere and Savor models a luxury feeling.

Owners will be able to choose from sixteen Plymouth models in four handsome product lines. A brand-new model is the Belvedere 4-door hardtop which has the low, sweeping lines of a convertible and the roomy passenger capacity of a sedan.

Optional equipment on all Plymouth models includes Push-Button PowerFlite automatic drive, power steering, power brakes, radio and other power features.
